Assembly of Qld
Parliament House
BRISBANE QLD 4000

Dear Mr Speaker

I refer to the Resolution of the Legislative Assembly dated 29 March 1990 which requested, amongst other matters, that this Commission investigate and report, so far as is possible by 1 July 1991, on the appropriateness of the existing Queensland local authority external boundaries.

I regret to advise that it will not be possible for the Commission to furnish its report by 1 July 1991. The external boundaries review has proved to be the most complex review conducted by this Commission. EARC has received to date over 2500 public submissions. The magnitude of the task is the primary cause of delay. Further, the Commission was conscious that it would not be appropriate to hold public hearings during the recent local government election period or until new council administrations had become established. The Commission expects to furnish its report by 31 October 1991.

Yours sincerely

TOM SHERMAN
Chairman

Dear Mr Speaker,

I refer to my letter dated 15 April 1991 advising that the Commission expected to furnish its report on the external boundaries of local authorities by 31 October. I again regret to advise that the Commission expects a further small delay. I am hopeful that the Commission can furnish this report by mid November. The reason for the further delay is basically the magnitude and complexity of the task.

Yours sincerely,

NEWS RELEASE

15 April 1991

EARC LOCAL AUTHORITIES EXTERNAL BOUNDARIES REVIEW

At its monthly meeting held on 12 April 1991 the Electoral and Administrative Review Commission agreed on those Local Authorities which it will examine further with a view to determining whether EARC will make recommendations on major boundary changes or amalgamations. The Local Authorities (and where possible to identify at this stage, the relevant areas) are as follows:

1. Logan City/Brisbane City - in respect of certain areas under negotiation between the two authorities in recent years;
2. Gold Coast City/Albert Shire - whether certain areas west of Mermaid Beach and Palm Beach should be transferred from Albert to Gold Coast;
3. Warwick/Glengallan/Rosenthal/Allora;
4. Clifton/Cambooya;
5. Roma/Bungil;
6. Gympie/Widgee;
7. Maryborough/Woocoo/Tiaro;
8. Bundaberg/Gooburru/Woongarra;
9. Gladstone/Calliope/Miriam Vale;
10. Townsville/Thuringowa;
11. Mackay/Pioneer.

The Commission also proposes to examine whether residents in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Community Councils in the Cook Shire should be qualified to vote and stand for office in Cook Shire Council Elections.

The Commission has selected the above cases after considering the public submission received.

The Commission also proposes to hold Public Hearings in the areas of concern on dates and at venues to be advised shortly. Public Hearings will be held in the period 10 June to 19 July. EARC will have ongoing contact with the Councils concerned to obtain further information and to clarify issues.

The Commission also proposes to consider a number of less major boundary adjustment proposals identified in the public submissions affecting the following Local Authorities:

Beaudesert/Albert	(70 properties on border)	SUBMISSION NO. 1146
Esk/Kilcoy	(Division 4 of Esk)	SUBMISSION NO. 992
Caboolture/Caloundra	(Bribie Island)	SUBMISSION NO. 42
Gatton/Cambooya	(properties in East Haldon)	SUBMISSION NOS. 2285 AND 2286
Waggamba/Tara	(Waggamba properties near Tara)	SUBMISSION NO. 1169
Tambo/Murweh	(Murweh properties bordering Tambo)	SUBMISSION NOS. 287, 1319, 1323, 1376, 2038
Noosa/Maroochy	(Peregian Beach)	SUBMISSION NOS. 24, 211, 246, 1102, 130, 1112, 1418, 652
Emerald/Bauhinia	(Emerald properties West and South West of Springsure)	SUBMISSION NOS. 333, 2479
Bauhinia/Duarina	(Rockland Spring property)	SUBMISSION NO. 338
Hervey Bay/Maryborough	(Aldershot)	SUBMISSION NO. 1960
Thuringowa/Dalrymple	(Mingela)	SUBMISSION NO. 1401
Pioneer/Whitsunday	(Midge Point)	SUBMISSION NO. 917
Burdekin/Bowen	(Bowen property to Burdekin)	SUBMISSION NO. 1051
Burke/Mornington	(Sweers Island)	SUBMISSION NO. 14
Burke/Mt Isa	(small area of Burke bordering Mt Isa)	SUBMISSION NO. 2448
Cloncurry/Mt Isa	(properties just south of Mt Isa)	SUBMISSION NO.1

As most of this latter category affect relatively small numbers of persons, the Commission does not propose, at this stage, to conduct Public Hearings. The Commission will seek to obtain the views of the persons and Local Authorities affected by further correspondence.

The Commission has today written to the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly advising him that it will be unable to furnish its report by 1 July 1991 as requested by the Legislative Assembly in its Resolution of 29 March 1990. The Commission has advised the Speaker that it expects to furnish its report by 31 October 1991.

PRESS RELEASE

17 April 1991

EARC LOCAL AUTHORITIES EXTERNAL BOUNDARIES REVIEW

The Commission met on Friday, 12.4.91 to determine the number and identity of external boundary cases it would examine further in relation to the Local Authority External Boundaries Review.

Examination of over 2,500 public submissions received by the Commission revealed a very large number of proposals ranging from the creation of new LAs to minor boundary adjustments. Proposals in some public submissions also included significant issues relating to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

The Commission reconsidered its list of possible external boundary changes at page 67 of Issues paper No. 8 in the light of all these proposals. The Commission decided on the cases identified in its press release of 15 April 1991 as being appropriate to examine further to test the principles and issues contained in Issues Paper No. 8.

The priority that should be attached to reviewing the boundaries of other Local Authorities which were on the original EARC list (as well as the many other proposals put to the Commission) will be dealt with in the Commission's final report.

The Commission has made it clear that it will consider recommending the establishment of a Boundaries Commission to continue to review Local Authority boundaries.

The Commission would expect in its final report to consider the relative priority of at least the major cases which should be considered by any future Boundaries Commission.

ELECTORAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW COMMISSION ATSI ENFRANCHISEMENT ISSUES OPTIONS PAPER

Introduction

The Electoral and Administrative Review Commission (EARC) is an independent body established in 1989 by an Act of the Queensland Parliament, following recommendations in the Fitzgerald Report. EARC's functions are to investigate and report to Parliament on a wide range of matters in public administration in Queensland at State and Local Government levels. One of the matters being investigated by EARC is the external boundaries of Local Authorities (mainstream Councils) in Queensland. EARC has previously called for written submissions on this matter and more than 2900 written submissions have been received so far.

The Issue

Some submissions received by EARC on external boundaries of Local Authorities have suggested that ATSI Communities neighbouring the Cook Shire Council are disadvantaged because they are unable to influence or participate in decisions of the Cook Shire which affect those Communities. Of particular concern are decisions regarding development and planning issues of a regional nature, for example, decisions that affect more than one Council. Some submissions stated that ATSI Communities want to have a say in decisions regarding land use and management, roads and transport, and it has been claimed that the present imbalance in major decision-making raises the potential for dissension and dispute without providing any effective mechanism to resolve problems. (Any person has the right to lodge objections to town planning decisions by mainstream Councils under the Local Government (Planning and Environment) Act 1990).

Any lack of influence over decisions by neighbouring Councils is not necessarily confined to the Cook Shire. It may apply to other ATSI Community Councils affected by neighbouring mainstream Council decisions both in Cape York and elsewhere. It may also apply between mainstream Councils.

The Commission has decided to examine this issue in relation to the Cook Shire and its neighbouring Councils. These Councils may include the Community Councils of Hopevale, Injinoo, Kowanyama, Lockhart River, Napranum, New Mapoon, Pormpuraaw, Umagico, and Wujal Wujal as well as the mainstream Council of Aurukun. It is apparent that there is some uncertainty regarding the existing boundaries of Community Council lands. Accordingly a map is attached which indicates the boundaries of Communities Councils, Aurukun and Cook Shires and other groups and other forms of land tenure as at July 1991 (Attachment A). Demographic information on ATSI Community Councils in Cape York is set out in Attachment B.

EARC will have to consult with both ATSI Communities, Aurukun Shire and Cook Shire to determine the nature of any problem and the best solution to the problem in the interests of all concerned.

Ideas already raised through submissions and during consultation with Community Councils, ATSI organisations and the Cook Shire Council focus on either some form of dual franchise (for example residents of ATSI Communities voting both for a Community Council and a mainstream Council) or for some form of consultation, negotiation or cooperative arrangement that would allow ATSI Communities to have some input into relevant decisions of neighbouring Councils.

With the assistance of ATSI organisations, Community Councils and the Cook Shire, EARC sets out below some options as possible solutions to assist community discussion of the issues.

Option 1

To change the law so that residents in neighbouring Community Councils can vote and stand for office in Cook Shire Council elections.

Some submissions have argued that this could be achieved by either of two mechanisms. Firstly, the area of the Community Council could be designated an electoral division of the neighbouring Cook Shire. Secondly, a "social division" could be created, where all the ATSI voters within Cook Shire would be contained on a special roll. Using either means, the ATSI voters would elect a specified number of Councillors to Cook Shire Council. Either of these mechanisms require changes to the law.

A third possibility would be simply to give residents in Community Councils the same rights as any residents in the Cook Shire. Complications would however arise with those Community Councils outside the present boundaries of the Cook Shire.

Advantages

- . This is a direct political solution using voting power to bestow influence on ATSI people;
- . It enfranchises ATSI people in the Cook Shire;
- . ATSI people would retain their own representative body as well as voting for representation on Cook Shire Council.

Disadvantages

- . If ATSI people vote in Cook Shire as well as in Community Councils, this implies that Community Councils are a lesser form of government, and may lessen the status of Community Councils relative to mainstream Councils;
- . ATSI Councils may have to agree to give up some functions to Cook Shire Council and lose some of their independence/autonomy;
- . ATSI people may be seen as overly advantaged by having two votes - 1 for the Community Council, 1 for the Cook Shire Council;
- . Voting power may not ensure the ATSI Communities share decision-making;
- . This option will not have any effect where Cook is not the Local Authority making decisions affecting the residents of a Community Council, for example where Aurukun, Carpentaria or another Community Council is the decision making body. Also this option will not assist Cook Shire Council where decisions affecting Cook Shire residents are being made by neighbouring mainstream Councils or Community Councils.

Option 2

To establish a Joint Board under Section 20 of the Local Government Act 1936-1991 to take over specified Local Government functions in Cape York regarding

- . Land use and management (including mining and water catchment management); and
- . Roads and transport;

where more than one Community or mainstream Local Authority is likely to be affected by the decision.

A Joint Board is formed voluntarily from the representatives of all Councils concerned, and member Councils can, at any time, cease their association with the Board. The Councils decide which of their functions and powers should be delegated to the Board, which then has full decision-making powers regarding the particular function(s). Therefore a Joint Board may have only a single function (for example roads) or it may be multi functional.

There may be changes to the law required in order to make this option available to Community Councils. EARC could also recommend legislative change to require all mainstream Local Authorities and Communities in Cape York to be members of the Joint Board.

Advantages

- . This option gives good prospects for sharing decision making powers;
- . It has the scope to involve all relevant mainstream Councils and Community Councils;
- . It does not focus on Cook Shire and it has the scope to deal with issues involving other mainstream Councils and Community Councils, for example a decision by Aurukun Shire Council affecting Pormpuraaw Community residents;
- . There is less risk of ATSI Councils losing substantial independence;
- . Under this model, Councils cede power to the Board, but can withdraw if the Board is not working satisfactorily.

Disadvantages

- . This option is less direct than option 1 - members of the Board are elected by existing Councillors rather than directly by the Community;
- . There may be dispute on what matters affect other Councils and therefore what should be handled by the Joint Board, rather than by individual mainstream Councils or Community Councils;
- . ATSI Communities may lose some independence, because any of their decisions that may affect others would go to the Joint Board.

Option 3

A Cape York Regional Development Authority to take over land use and management functions as well as roads and other capital works funding (apart from municipal road funds) for the whole Cape York area. It would be mandatory that all Councils in Cape York be members of the Authority which would decide on any land use and/or transport issue which affects more than one mainstream Council. Aboriginal Corporations (for example Gungarde and Ang Gnarra) who are likely to become landholding bodies under the Land Rights legislation may also be members. All members would have an equal vote on the Authority.

There would need to be changes to the law to establish this Authority.

Advantages

- . There would be more scope for consistent development of the Cape York region;
- . Unlike option 2, there is no division or confusion over which matters should be considered (for example what matters are purely domestic and what affect other Councils);
- . There is more scope for strategic planning and overall solutions;
- . There is equal power for all member Councils.

Disadvantages

- . This option is less direct than option 1, and members of the Board represent their Councils or organisations rather than the Communities directly;
- . The provision for equal power for all member Councils would make it possible for the interests of a small population base (which is represented by a number of Councils) to prevail over the interests of a much larger population (which might be represented by fewer Councils);
- . The Authority is likely to be less representative and more bureaucratic;
- . Mainstream Councils and Community Councils would lose the functions altogether, with little or no scope to withdraw from the Authority if it proved unsatisfactory;
- . There is potential for friction among the Authority, the mainstream Councils and the Community Councils, and for the confusion of their roles.

Option 4

A Cape York Regional Board similar to the Great Sandy Regional Park Board as recommended in the Fitzgerald Report on Fraser Island, could be adapted to Cape York land use, management and roads and transport.

The powers recommended for the Board would be similar to those for the Cape York Regional Development Authority under option 3. Its members could include representatives of the State Government, mainstream Councils and Community Councils and other relevant bodies. There would be stronger central control and therefore less power would be held by Community Councils and mainstream Councils.

(NOTE: The Fitzgerald Report recommends that co-ordination and management for the Great Sandy Region be vested in the Queensland National Parks and Wildlife Service with the Board as an advisory body (pp. 91,92 and 95.3 of the Report)

Advantages

- . There is more scope for consistent development of the Cape York region;
- . There is more scope for strategic planning and an overall solution.

Disadvantages

- . The Board could be less representative and more bureaucratic;
- . This centralises power and may be inconsistent with stated government policies regarding the partnership of the three levels of government.

Option 5

To establish a Regional Consultative Body where land use and management, roads and transport, and any other issues and decisions affecting more than one Council are discussed. This would be similar to a Joint Committee under the Local Government Act 1936-1991, which is formed voluntarily by selected representatives of each Council involved, to consider, consult and offer advice on matters of mutual concern. This provides for exchange of information and views but has no decision-making powers.

Advantages

- . Community Councils and mainstream Councils give up no functions and preserve their independence;
- . This option is closer to the Communities concerned, and is therefore more representative than options 3 and 4;
- . This ensures that notice is given of proposed decisions by neighbouring Councils, and promotes consultation and negotiation over the relevant issues;
- . It also allows for matters to be discussed on neutral territory before conflicts escalate.

Disadvantages

- . The Council which makes the decision does not share the decision making power;
- . This is a consultative body only, with no direct power to do anything itself.

Other Relevant Considerations

In considering these options, other possible developments need to be kept in mind, for example:

- . Following the Report of the Legislation Review Committee due in October 1991, it is possible that ATSI Community Councils will acquire full Local Government status with enhanced functions in areas such as community justice; and
- . Developments arising from Queensland Land Rights legislation.

Other legislation may impinge upon the issue including the proposed Coastal Management Act, proposed changes to the Marine Parks Act, the redrafting of the National Parks Act and the proposed Wet Tropics Management Authority.

Options 1 to 5 represent some of the many possible forms of franchise and cooperation. Cooperative arrangements can have differing levels of independence, autonomy, executive power, membership and functions, and submissions may identify other options.

Whatever option is pursued, a process will need to be established to enable adjustments to arrangements over time as practical experience dictates. It may be that some form of Permanent Boundaries Commission to examine the external boundaries of Local Authorities would be appropriate to oversee this. There may also be a need to provide for a mechanism for resolving disputes which might arise with any form of joint arrangement.

A further issue is that the boundaries of DOGITs (lands granted under Deed of Grant in Trust) may only reflect land ownership, rather than natural communities and communities of interest, and some conflicts may therefore result. This may be a matter to be examined further by a Permanent Boundaries Commission, once recommendations of the Legislation Review Committee and Land Rights legislation have been implemented.

Notes:

The Australian Bureau of Statistics uses the following criteria to classify areas as Localities: The area must:

- (i) contain a non-farm population of at least 200 people;
- (ii) have a minimum of 40 occupied non-farm dwellings with a discernible urban street pattern; and
- (iii) have a discernible nucleus of population. (ABS, Collection District Design and GBD Update Manual, 1991)

If areas of rural residential development do not meet these criteria, their residents are classified as rural population.

This data represents 1986 Census material and developments since that time are not included.

*Rural Population - The rural population for the purposes of this report is the remainder of the population in that LGA not classified to an urban centre or (rural) locality as defined above.

PRINCIPLES AND INDICATORS PROPOSED IN ISSUES PAPER NO. 8

The interstate experience raises the following issues:

- (a) whether Queensland adopt a general set of underlying principles to guide the broad direction of boundary change and a more specific set of indicators that can be used, in combination, to evaluate and quantify where possible particular aspects of boundary change; and
- (b) whether such principles and indicators be set in legislation, as this would reduce the flexibility of the activities of the body undertaking such boundary changes, and would make them less responsive to changes in circumstances in the future.

8.2.2 Principles for Queensland

Possible principles to guide the determination of external LA boundaries in Queensland can be grouped into three categories.

A sound LA should:

COMMUNITY CONSIDERATIONS

- (a) have boundaries which, where possible, do not divide local neighbourhoods or adjacent rural and urban areas;
- (b) have boundaries reflecting the spatial pattern of human activities;
- (c) reflect the principle that town and adjacent country are interdependent;
- (d) be based on sufficient community of interest to ensure the growth of community self awareness and community based action;
- (e) provide a well defined centre of administration and service, easily accessible to all citizens;
- (f) provide challenging responsibilities which would engender maximum public interest to encourage high quality candidates (and staff);
- (g) ensure effective elected representation for residents and ratepayers at the local level;

DEMOGRAPHIC AND GEOGRAPHIC CONSIDERATIONS

- (h) encompass the total area required for co-ordinated development and planning (in relation to land use, development and other public works, tourism and recreation);
- (i) encompass a convenient area for providing physical and human services;
- (j) encompass within its boundaries the area over which its principal centre has its major spatial linkages;

- (k) include consideration of total population and its distribution;
- (l) have a size of area that would allow for future projected growth;
- (m) cater for both urban and rural needs and recognise their interdependence;
- (n) contain within the one LA, to the extent that it is possible, transport, environmental and integrated land use systems;

ECONOMIC CONSIDERATIONS

- (o) be able to fulfil all the required functions under the Local Government Act 1936-1990 and other Acts ascribing authority to it, as efficiently and effectively as possible;
- (p) have a sufficiently strong resource base (both in fiscal and management capacity) to both maintain services and facilities at desired levels and quality, and to adopt new activities as required by changing communities;
- (q) be of an optimal size to enable its programmes to be carried out so as to:
 - . create economies of scale in operation;
 - . enable the purchase and use of the most efficient plant and equipment over the total work year; and
 - . permit the employment of the best available qualified staff;
- (r) have sufficient area to allow for flexible approaches to revenue raising and priority setting; and
- (s) have a sufficient financial base to operate as an independent and elected body.

Therefore the financial advantages or disadvantages (including the economies or diseconomies of scale) of any relevant proposal to the residents and ratepayers of the areas concerned should be considered.

There are six ancillary principles which should be applied in considering any changes to LA external boundaries. These are:

- (a) No single principle should be regarded as absolute.
- (b) There will always be special circumstances which justify a departure from a general principle.
- (c) There will be occasions when it is not possible to apply a particular principle without departing from another principle.
- (d) There will be cases where principles may overlap or even conflict.
- (e) There will be cases where problems in an LA do not relate to an external boundaries issue, and consequently can be solved by other means such as joint arrangements or review of administration.

- (f) In defining LA boundaries preference should be given to amalgamations and boundary adjustments; an existing LA should not be dissected unless this is clearly the best course open having regard to other factors.

8.3 Proposed Indicators for Queensland

8.3.1 Functions undertaken

The appropriate boundaries of an LA depend upon the role it is expected to play.

An LA is a multi-functioned or general purpose organisation with the capacity to make choices regarding the combinations of functions and services to be provided to the community.

The main functions able to be performed by LAs in Queensland, under Section 30 of the Local Government Act 1936-1990 and the Acts governing Local Government functions, can be categorized into the following groups:

- (a) Community representation;
- (b) Public works and services;
- (c) Recreational facilities;
- (d) Council properties;
- (e) Car parking and traffic management;
- (f) Health and welfare;
- (g) Housing;
- (h) Land use planning and control;
- (i) Municipal trading;
- (j) Inspection/licensing;
- (k) Power to regulate;
- (l) Promotion and development;
- (m) Civil defence.

Not all LAs choose to undertake all of the functions available. This choice can reflect community needs and desires or that an LA is unable to provide the services needed.

While it is not within EARC's brief to review the role and functions of an LA, the range of functions provided are proposed as one indicator of what service an LA is able to provide.

8.3.2 Community considerations

Community considerations which impact on the appropriateness of an LAs external boundaries include:

- (a) community of interest; and
- (b) representation of the community and possibilities for community participation.

Community considerations are important because the strongest LA is one which is securely rooted in, and representative of, well established local communities. EARC has therefore included indicators relating to community considerations in this paper, while recognising the difficulties in defining these factors.

Each LA should provide for most, if not all of the needs of the residents of the area. An area that has those facilities which people need and expect, including employment opportunities, commercial needs, schooling, shopping, the practice of religion, hospital and medical care, cultural needs, recreation and major transport, has a community of interest.

LAs often contain more than one community. On the other hand, where LA boundaries divide areas that really form a coherent social and economic whole, this runs contrary to one of the basic concepts of Local Government.

The following indicators regarding community of interest are proposed;

- (a) geographic features and man-made features which separate communities should be used where possible, as boundary guides;
- (b) an LGA should include the territory with which the major centre has special linkages;
- (c) communication lines within an LA should be considered;
- (d) patterns of travel, life and work as a consideration; and
- (e) duplication of facilities, including location of administration centre and depot, and sharing of any municipal facilities with neighbouring LAs.

An essential element of Local Government is the ability to represent the people "on the ground" and to provide opportunities for participation. Three indicators regarding representation and participation, are proposed:

- (a) average number of electors per member;
- (b) adequate access between the LA and residents, that is, location of LA office and access to it; and
- (c) area of LA per capita, that is, population density.

8.3.3 Demographic and geographic considerations

There is considerable diversity in Local Government in Queensland as a result of demographic and geographic patterns. It is important, however, to examine whether the current degree of diversity is conducive to effective Local Government.

Demographic indicators are of considerable importance in defining an LGA. Demographic patterns such as urban overspill, rapid coastal development and rural population decline require consideration to ensure that LA external boundaries remain efficient.

Co-ordinated development and planning is a demographic principle which must be recognised during any examination of external boundaries of LAs. Demographic problems resulting from population growth have occurred as a result of a lack of co-ordination of planning and development across LA external boundaries. Zonings within town planning schemes would be indicators of population growth areas and of urban overspill into adjoining LAs. Town planning schemes of neighbouring LAs could also be indicators of unco-ordinated development.

What constitutes a sound rural LA will be different from what constitutes a sound urban LA, and the responsibilities, functions, financial resources, management and staffing resources of urban LAs differ significantly from those of rural LAs. It is therefore inappropriate to apply any particular indicators in a similar manner.

The following demographic indicators are proposed:

- (a) total population;
- (b) population density;
- (c) population growth or decline;
- (d) distribution of population;
- (e) extent of use of facilities by residents of adjoining LAs;
- (f) level of building approvals;
- (g) planned future developments in the LA in the next decade; and
- (h) community of interest considerations (indicators of which have been identified in Subsection 5.2).

The following geographic indicators are proposed:

- (a) area of LA; and
- (b) length of roads of LA.

8.3.4 Economic considerations

The assumption that increasing the size of LGAs (through amalgamation) will increase population and rate base, and lead to improved financial viability is not true in all cases.

Certainly financial viability depends in part on area. Without sufficient and adequately valued property, an LA's finances are limited. As a consequence it will be unable to undertake a full range of functions; LAs often concentrate on their own survival rather than offering services to their populace.

Where LAs are financially weak and dependent on funds from other levels of government this threatens their autonomy and ability to independently select the service mix appropriate for their area.

FINANCIAL CONDITION

LAs have various sources of income. These include rates and other revenue under their control, reimbursements for works carried out for government agencies or private enterprise, and grants and subsidies from other levels of government.

Financial condition can be assessed in terms of the ability of a LA to maintain services and facilities at desired levels and quality in both the short and the longer term. Financial stress would be manifest when there was an observed need to reduce the scope and/or quality of services below levels considered appropriate in the field.

The following combined indicators are proposed to detect potential financial stress:

- (a) external risk assessment;
- (b) fund flexibility assessment;
- (c) rating stress (all LAs) assessment;
- (d) rating stress (rural LAs) assessment; and
- (e) population trends.

These indicators are further explained in Appendix E.

ECONOMIES OF SCALE

Economies of scale may occur only in some capital intensive physical services (water and sewerage). There is some evidence of diseconomies of scale with increased size. Larger LAs provide more services, but receive less support per capita from State and Commonwealth than do small LAs, and rural LAs with large areas have higher levels of expenditure per capita than do urban ones.

Three functions, namely general public services, recreation and culture, and housing and community facilities, have been selected as reflecting LA service activities in the general administration, people related and property-related areas.

The proposed indicators of economies of scale for these purposes are:

- (a) general public services expenditure per capita (that is, general administration);
- (b) recreation and culture expenditure per capita (that is, people related service activities of LA excluding libraries);
- (c) housing and community facilities expenditure per capita (that is, property related service activities of LA excluding garbage and cleansing services);
- (d) area of LA; and
- (e) population density (area per capita).

ADMINISTRATIVE EFFICIENCY

Administrative efficiency is related to economic viability. Administrative costs are affected by urban scatter, regional role and non resident use of services. The proportion of rate revenue spent on administration costs tends to be higher in smaller shires. The higher the proportion spent on administration, the less is left for provision of services and carrying out functions on behalf of the population of the LA. Also an LA should be able to attract good quality councillors and staff.

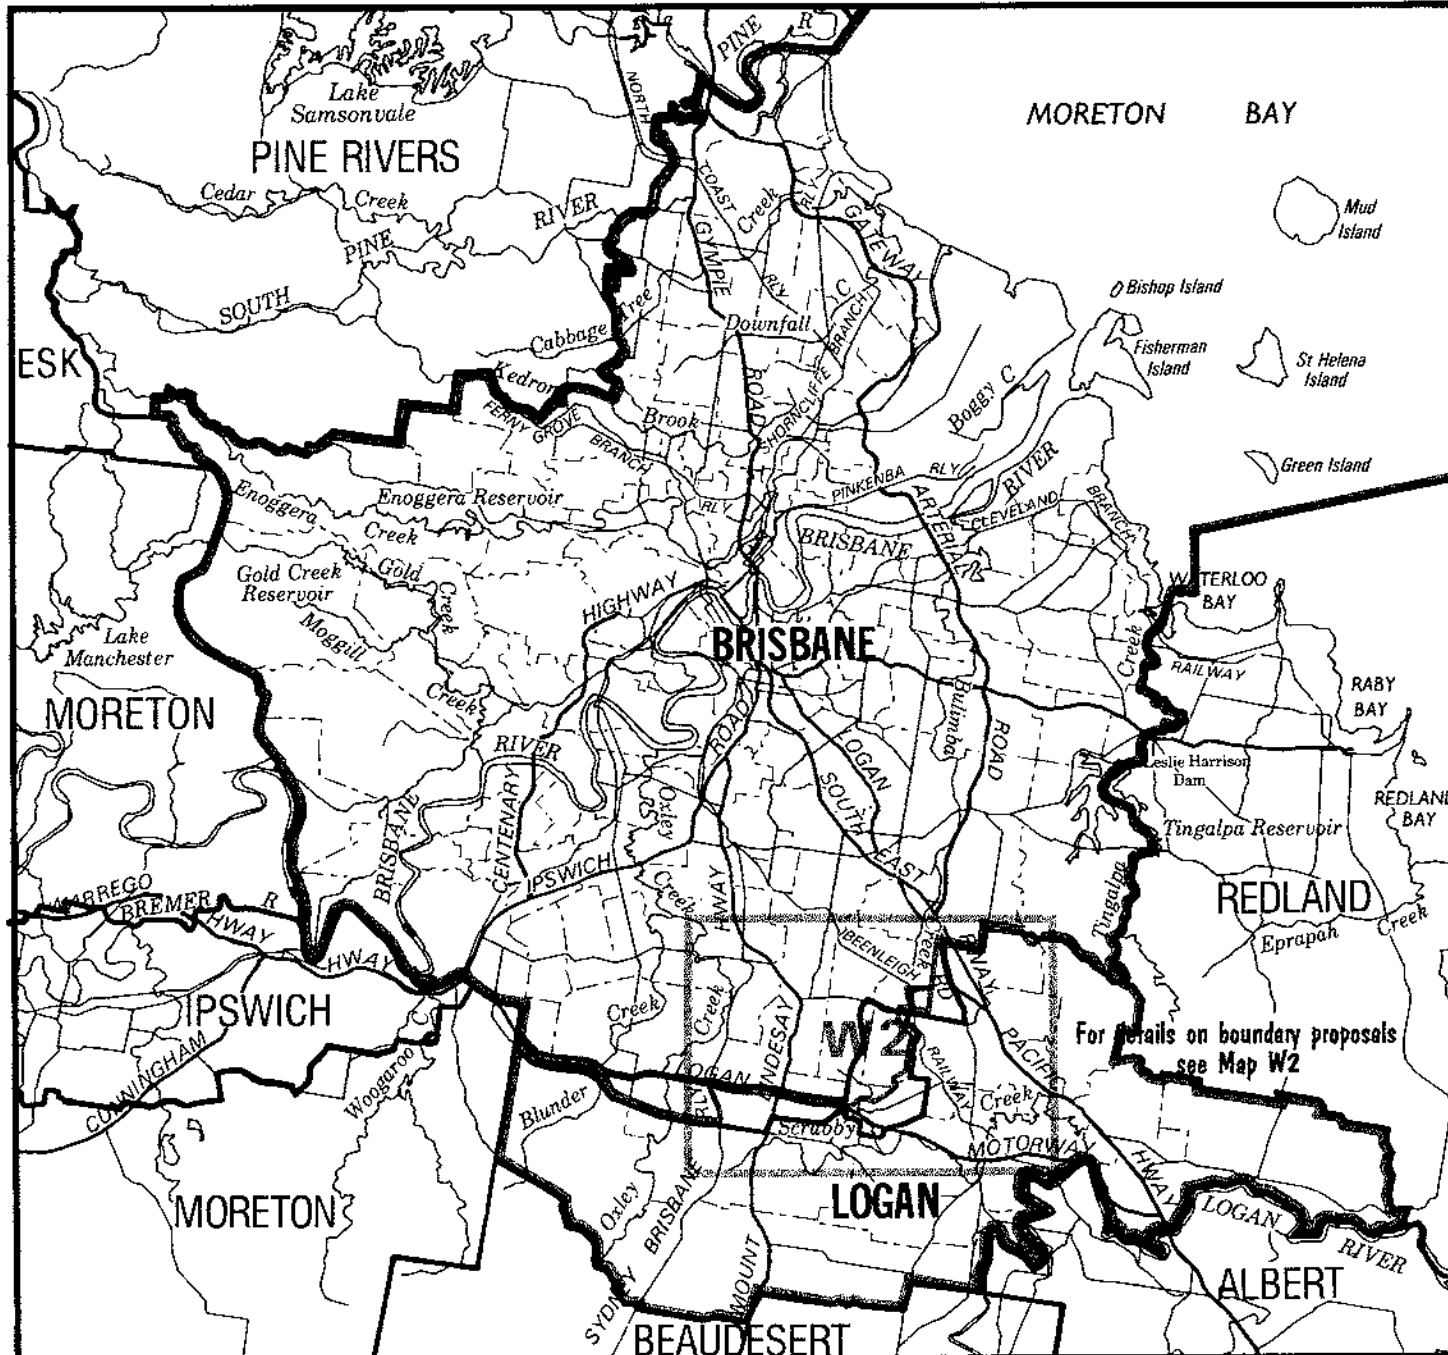

The proposed indicators of administrative efficiency include:

- (a) administration costs as a percentage of rate revenue;
- (b) administration costs per head of population; and
- (c) number and type of senior and specialist officers employed.
