Date: Tuesday, 29 September 2015

Attendees

His Excellency Mr Yang Xiong  Mayor of Shanghai
Mr Zhang Xiaosong  Director-General, Shanghai Foreign Affairs Office
Ms Shang Yuying  Director-General, Shanghai Commerce Commission
Mr Zhu Weimin  Deputy Director-General, Shanghai Foreign Affairs Office
Mr Xu Zuxin  Deputy Director-General, Shanghai Science and Technology Commission
Mr Graeme Meehan  Australian Consul General, Shanghai

Meeting Summary:

- The meeting with His Excellency Mr Yang Xiong, Mayor of Shanghai, offered the opportunity to reinforce the importance the Queensland Government places on its Sister State relationship with Shanghai which was established in May 1989.
- The Premier raised that her first visit to China was as part of a Queensland Youth visit 24 years ago and that this visit was her first visit to China as Premier.
- Mr Yang spoke of the efforts that Shanghai are putting in to the development of the pilot free trade zone which will generate more opportunities for collaborations between Queensland and Shanghai.
- The Premier indicated that Queensland hopes to enhance and promote the collaboration in the areas of science and technology innovation, bio-medicine and education between the younger generations of the two states.
Breakfast Meeting with Australian Ambassador to Japan

Date: Thursday, 1 October 2015

Attendees
Mr Bruce Miller
Australian Ambassador to Japan
Ms Leonie Muldoon
Minister (Commercial), Australian Embassy Tokyo
Mr Paul Ross
Minister-Counsellor (Agriculture), Australian Embassy Tokyo
Ms Jane Ogge-Cowan
Counsellor (Trade and Economic), Australian Embassy Tokyo
Mr Dan Stuart
First Secretary (Political), Australian Embassy Tokyo

Meeting Summary:

• Mr Bruce Miller, Australian Ambassador to Japan, provided a brief on the Japan market and economic overview including the effects of the new Abe Government in stimulating the Japanese economy out of recession.

• The historical and current investment trends into Australia and where Queensland can benefit were also discussed.

• With Japan’s declining and aging population (60,000 over 100) opportunities exist in robotics (for example, assisting in agriculture) and medicine.

• There are also opportunities for agricultural know-how and innovation to be exported from Queensland to Japan.

• In education, as 50% of Japanese companies’ profits are now coming from overseas, there is an opportunity to be a part of Japan’s push for it younger citizens to be global citizens through overseas training and up-skilling programs.

• After a historically predominantly low risk investment portfolio, the Japanese Government has now shifted focus to high risk/higher returns in order to fund welfare systems for their aging population.

• Diversity and encouraging/supporting women back to the work place is a priority for Prime Minister Abe.
Meeting and Seminar with Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ

Date: Thursday, 1 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Takashi Morimura
Managing Officer, Group Head of Integrated Global Business Group, Deputy
President, Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ

Mr Go Watanabe
Managing Executive Officer & CEO, Asia &
Oceania Headquarters

Mr Toru Masutani
Regional Head of Oceania, General
Manager, Sydney Branch

Mr Yoshio Morishita
General Manager, Global Business Division

Mr Ichiro Makita
Chief Manager, Global Planning Division

Meeting and Event Summary:

• This meeting allowed for the signing of the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ (BOTM) and the Queensland Government through Trade and Investment Queensland to further invest into Queensland’s resources, infrastructure, energy and agriculture/food sectors, particularly in North Queensland.

• The signing was followed by a food and agriculture focused industry seminar which was to promote further investment opportunities into the state.

• BOTM has been in Australia over 30 years and, from a historically predominately Japanese company base, the majority of their corporate customers are non-Japanese companies.

• BOTM advised they are now working with more companies in project finance with strong expertise in infrastructure. They have a team of 40 in this section, concentrating on advisory and debt raising. One of their recent advisory projects include the Royal North Shore hospital project in New South Wales.

• The Premier outlined a number of current infrastructure projects in Queensland (Stage 2 Gold Coast Light Rail) and advised that the infrastructure plan for the state will be released next year.

• BOTM’s holding company Mitsubishi UFJ Trust Fund has 15% share in AMP and as such they have close ties with the company and work on both asset management and structured finance with AMP.

• BOTM expressed surprise at the recent change in Prime Minister but they hope for continued close relationship between the new Australian Prime Minister and Prime Minister Abe.

• The Premier also extended an invitation for a representative to attend the Northern Queensland Economic Summit.

• Given the MOU signing and increasing business opportunities in Queensland, BOTM could be encouraged to open a branch in Queensland in the future.
Meeting and Seminar with Japan Oil, Gas and Metals National Corporation (JOGMEC)

Date: Thursday, 1 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Hirobumi Kawano
President, Japan Oil, Gas and Metals National Corporation

Mr Hajime Ikeda
Director-General, Coal Development Department

Mr Takahiro Mochizuki
Director, Coal Development Division, Coal Development Department

Mr Naotaka Adachi
Executive Director (Metals & Coal Finance and Environment Unit), Member of the Board

Mr Takashi Fukuzaki
Deputy Director-General, Coal Development Department

Meeting Summary:

- The President of Japan Oil, Gas and Metals National Corporation (JOGMEC), Mr Kawano extended his congratulations to the Premier on her recent election. Mr Kawano also thanked the Premier for Queensland’s ongoing assistance and cooperation since the signing of the MOU in September 2013.

- They also provided an overview of JOGMEC’s investment strategy and assistance programs, including three projects where they are providing funding for exploration in coal projects in Queensland.

- With declining resources prices, the appetite for investment in Japan has also declined but JOGMEC believes that a long term view must be taken for resources investments to ensure a stable supply into the future.

- Thus JOGMEC sees the Premier’s first visit to Japan as very timely to promote in person the attractiveness of Queensland and the importance of the long-term relationship.

- The meeting was followed by a joint seminar to promote continued investment in Queensland’s greenfield and brownfield resources sector.

- The Premier also extended an invitation for a representative of JOGMEC to attend the Northern Queensland Economic Summit.

Mr Mario Pennisi  Chairman, Life Sciences Queensland

Meeting Summary:

- Asahi has been active in Australian since 2009 and the Queensland market has the best growth rate out of Australia and as such Asahi have situated two product distribution centres in Mackay and Townsville. The Premier thanked Asahi for the contribution to job creation in Queensland.
- Mr Kawatsura advised that Asahi have further plans to utilise further technology to increase production and productivity.
- The Premier advised that the future of bio-fuels in Queensland will start with a mandate of 2%.
- Asahi experienced an initial negativity internally regarding the research over the last 10 years, but now that it is producing results with potential to change the world, it is one of Asahi’s success stories.
- The Premier also witnessed the signing of a ‘Letter of Intent’ between Asahi Holdings and the Queensland University of Technology to further develop their collaboration on sugarcane biofuels.
Meeting with JFE Steel Corporation

Date: Thursday, 1 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Hiromu Oka  Senior Vice President, JFE Steel Corporation
Mr Akira Suzuki  Vice President, Raw Materials Purchasing, Materials and Machinery Purchasing
Mr Tetsuma Chiba  General Manager, Coal Section, Raw Material Dept II
Mr Hiroshi Daimon  General Manager, Raw Materials Dept I
Mr Scott Ada  Assistant General Manager, JFE Shoji Trade Australia

Meeting Summary:

- This visit enabled the Premier to take up Mr Oka’s invitation to meet in Japan. Mr Oka extended the invitation to the Premier when he visited Brisbane on 15 July 2015 with JFE Steel Australia representatives during his first business trip to Australia as Senior Vice President.

- Mr Oka provided an overview of JFE Steel’s operations and investments – JFE Steel is the biggest buyer of gas in Japan (outside of the electricity companies) and they buy from Tokyo Gas.

- The Premier acknowledged JFE’s contribution to the Queensland economy and encouraged further and continued investment by JFE Steel in Queensland. JFE Steel procures over 70% of its total coal from Queensland and on a value basis the company purchases more than 5% of total exports from Queensland. JFE Steel has chosen to locate its Australian headquarters in Brisbane, unlike its competitors.

- JFE Steel sends four graduate employees to Queensland each year for language training.

- The Premier also discussed the Advance Queensland graduate program.

- Discussion also occurred on the utilisation of the Qantas direct flights from Brisbane to Narita for business meetings and that this direct connection is another platform on which to further strengthen the relationship between Queensland and Japan.
Meeting with Iwasaki Sangyo Corporation

Date:  Thursday, 2 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Yoshitaro Iwasaki  President, Iwasaki Sangyo Corporation
Ms Takaho Iwasaki  International Sales and Marketing Manager
Mr Tsukasa Kaieda  Director- General Manager, Global Business and Development Team
Mr Ryoichi Fukuba  Senior Manager, Australian Business Department

Meeting Summary:

• This meeting reaffirmed Queensland’s relationship with one of Japan’s major and longest standing investors in Queensland’s tourism sector (Capricorn Resort Yeppoon).

• Mr Iwasaki provided an overview of further development plans for the resort in Queensland including a wagyu farm to take advantage of high demand in both Japan and China.

• There was discussion on the history of tourism in Queensland and the growth of the industry and also the importance of the industry. Queensland should not rely on just having natural beauty as for tourists now that is a given. They need the whole experience – like farming, food and overall entertainment. With the whole experience as a selling point, this will lead to much further growth in the industry and also local job creation.

• Mr Iwasaki commented on the lack of direct routes into Brisbane and also into the Central Queensland regions as well. Virgin previously flew direct but this service ended a number of years ago. The Premier stated that with the return of direct flights to Japan and more coming from China, there can be an expectation to see this increase in the future. The access to regions is a ‘chicken vs egg’ situation – they will only put on a service where there is attraction and can only built attraction with a service. Mr Iwasaki hopes to break this cycle with a large scale development. There was agreement on the long term vision of the tourism industry.

• There was also discussion on the potential of a casino license for the region to enable the development of an integrated resort.

• Mr Iwasaki officially accepted the invitation to attend as a speaker at the Northern Queensland Economic Summit to be held in Cairns on 4-6 November 2015.
Meeting with Fast Retailing (UNIQLO)

Date: Friday, 2 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Tadashi Yanai Chairman, President and CEO, Fast Retailing Co Ltd

Mr Shoichi Miyazaka CEO, UNIQLO Australia

Mr Kenji Tsuji Operations Director, UNIQLO Australia

Meeting Summary:

- Mr Yanai provided an overview of the company philosophy and expansion plans for Uniqlo in Australia – 50 stores as soon as possible. Over the next couple of years there is further expansion planned within Queensland with the Australian market having a proven buying power and eye for quality fashion. They also see Australia as a launch pad for entry to Africa and South America.

- The Premier discussed the Advance Queensland graduate program and Mr Yanai indicated that he would be happy to assist with accepting graduates to his company under the program. Discussion was also held on the need for innovation and R&D.

- Mr Yanai advised that once the date for the official opening of the Indooroopilly store is known, an invitation will be sent to the Premier.

- The Premier extended an invitation to attend the Northern Queensland Economic Summit.

- The Premier also thanked Mr Yanai for the opportunity to have a guided tour of the Uniqlo flagship store in the Ginza district later that afternoon.

Meeting with Japanese Government

Date: Friday, 2 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Yoshihide Suga
Minister of State, Chief Cabinet Secretary

Mr Bruce Miller
Australian Ambassador to Japan

Mr Dan Stuart
First Secretary (Political), Australian Embassy Tokyo

Meeting Summary:

- This meeting provided an opportunity to confirm Queensland's strong commitment to the broader bilateral relationship with Japan; and discuss recent developments in the Australia-Japan relationship.

- The Queensland-Japan relationship is one of strength, diversity and maturity which dates back to 1896 (when the first Japanese Consulate in Australia was opened in Townsville). Note that the Queensland Government has maintained a trade and investment office in Tokyo since 1979.

- Mr Suga said the Japan-Australia Economic Partnership Agreement (JAEPA) held great opportunities for both Japan and Queensland. He was committed to ensuring JAEPA was fully utilised to increase trade and investment with Australia, including Queensland.

- Mr Suga also said that Queensland was an essential partner for Japan, providing 30% of Japan’s coal imports and 40% of its beef imports. Japan wanted Queensland to continue to be a stable supplier of resources, energy and agricultural products. Japan was Queensland’s largest trading partner. Mr Suga requested that Queensland actively support Japanese companies that had interest in Australia, including investment companies.

- The Premier said Queensland deeply values its trade and investment relationship with Japan. Queensland would continue to be a reliable supplier to Japan, including resources and energy. Queensland was also committed to increasing the trade of agricultural products with Japan, including beef.

- Japanese and Queensland economies are highly complementary. Queensland is a safe, secure and reliable supplier to Japan of food, energy and mineral resources and a world-class centre for financial and other services. Japan is a reliable customer of Queensland resources, and Japanese investment has played a significant role in the development of the Queensland economy.

- Clean coal technology was also discussed and both Mr Suga and the Premier are keen to pursue how Queensland and Japan can work together to further promote this technology.
Tour of the National Art Centre Tokyo

Date: Saturday, 3 October 2015

Attendees

Mr Yasuo Nakajima
Chief Producer, Culture Promotions Department, The Yomuri Shinbun

Mr Naoki Yoneda
Curator, National Art Centre Tokyo

Dr Alexandra Siddall
Counsellor (Public Affairs), Australian Embassy Tokyo

Tour Summary:

- The Premier undertook a tour of the National Art Centre Tokyo which is one of the world’s most visited galleries.

- Queensland’s QAGOMA has secured the opportunity to show a QAGOMA curated collection at the National Art Centre Tokyo in 2017-18, a first for Queensland. With the QAGOMA curated collection of Gerhard Richter, often considered the world’s greatest living painter, QAGOMA is expanding and promoting their brand, taking its program and IP out to the region and to the world and bringing visitors back to Queensland.

- Both Mr Nakajima and Mr Yoneda indicated that they were planning to visit Brisbane in November for the 8th Asia Pacific Triennial of Contemporary Art.
Lunch with the Governor of Saitama Prefecture

Date: Saturday, 3 October 2015

Meeting Summary:

• The Premier was given a demonstration of “Pepper” personal robots. Pepper is the first personal robot in the world that can read emotions and also have emotions. Using world first technology, Pepper generates emotions by processing information from camera, touch sensors, accelerometer and other inbuilt sensors. For example, Pepper is “happy” when praised and “gets scared” when lights are dimmed.

• Launched to the public in June 2015, Pepper has been extremely popular selling out within minutes after going on sale. Following the release of the “personal” Pepper, Softbank has also released a commercial “Pepper for Biz”. Earlier this year, Mizuho Bank introduced Pepper at their flagship branch in Tokyo. Pepper entertains customers with games and multimedia and provides basic information on bank products.

• Softbank also gave a presentation of the potential uses for Pepper in homes, schools and work places.

• The Premier invited Softbank representatives to visit Queensland and meet with representatives from the Department of Education and Training.

• Softbank also proposed to proceed to a ‘non-disclosure agreement’ to further discuss potential of rolling out Pepper in Queensland.
Premier’s visit to China – China Media Clips

1. Video – Interview with the Premier of Queensland

   1 October 2015, "World in Dragon Eyes", Shandong TV Station, Shandong, China
   Duration: 7 mins 6 secs
   Link: http://v.iqilu.com/gjpd/lstx/2015/1001/4263682.html

Translation of the video:

0"00 - In many people’s mind, Australia is a country with lovely koala and kangaroo, beautiful Gold Coast and world heritage Great Barrier Reef. But do you know where these animals and places are located? The answer is Queensland. Our reporter has conducted an interview of the Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk, Premier of Queensland, in Beijing recently.

3"24 - As one of the preferred tourism destinations to Chinese customers, Australia, especially Queensland, has attracted many Chinese visitors in recent years. According to the latest statistics, the number of Chinese visitors to Gold Coast has reached 186,000 per annum, which makes China the largest source of international visitors to Gold Coast. At present, China has regular direct/indirect flight services to Brisbane, at least one flight per day. Recently, China and Australia had launched new direct flight services between Wuhan to Gold Coast, which provides an alternative option for Chinese tourists travelling to Gold Coast other than the original ways of taking ground transportation via Brisbane.

In order to meet the growing number of tourists from China, Queensland Government has communicated with relevant department of the Australian Government in regards to providing favorable policies for Chinese visitors.

4"33 - At present, the Australian Embassy and Consulates had opened a Working Holiday Visa for Chinese young people, which gives them a unique and once-a-life-time opportunity to live in Australia and experience its culture for up to 12 months. In the meantime, Australia will also offer a 10-year multiple entry visa to Chinese citizen which is expected to be implemented next year. On 17th June, Mr Gao Hucheng, Chinese Minister of Commerce and Mr Andrew Robb, Australian Minister for Trade and Investment signed the China-Australia Free Trade Agreement in Canberra on behalf of the two governments. The FTA will provide favorable conditions to Australian’s export of agri products to China such as beef, seafood, and live cattle.

5"40 - As the second largest state in Australia, Queensland not only has great advantages in traditional industry, investment, tourism, and education sectors, but also has strong capability in bio-technology.

6"17 - The cultural and people-to-people exchanges, especially the exchanges between young people of Australia and China, also helped to strengthen the relationship between the two countries. The Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk had visited China as being one of the students who participated in the earliest culture exchange program with China, and was greatly benefit from that program. She encourages more collaborations in the education sector especially the exchanges of younger generation between Australia and China.

6"55 - Australia is an open and friendly country with strong economic growth. It is now an important trading partner to China, and will offer more opportunities to China in the future.
2. Yang Xiong met with the Premier of Queensland, Australia

   1 October 2015, CPC News, China

   Translated article:

   On 30th September, Mr Yang Xiong, the Mayor of Shanghai met with the Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk, the Premier of Queensland, Australia.

   During the meeting, Yang Xiong remarked that China and Australia had established a long-term friendly relationships, and the signing of the China Australia Free Trade Agreement in June this year has added new vitality and opportunity to the development of bilateral economic and trade relations between the two countries. Since the establishment of the sister-state relationship between Queensland and Shanghai in 1989, the two sides had developed fruitful and successful cooperation in the areas of education, science & technology, bio-medicine and so on. Through Shanghai World Expo in 2010, the people of Shanghai had a better understanding of Australia and Queensland, and also, Brisbane’s experience in post-expo development and construction provided great example and inspiration to Shanghai. At present, in accordance with the Central Government’s requirements, Shanghai is putting great efforts in the development of the pilot free trade zone to further promote and facilitate trade and investment, and accelerate the reform and opening up in the financial sector. This will create good opportunity for the increase of the trade and economic cooperation between Queensland and Shanghai, and also provide a gateway for the promotion of bilateral investments by the businesses.

   Meanwhile, Shanghai is speeding up the construction of a science and technology innovation center with global influence. On the basis of existing cooperation between the universities and research institutions in Queensland and Shanghai, we hope to further expand the exchanges, enhance the cooperation and achieve more outcomes in scientific and technological innovations.

   The Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk said Queensland and Shanghai has enjoyed a long history of friendly relations, and we attach great importance to this relationship and actively implement the cooperation and exchanges under the sister-state memorandum with Shanghai. On next step, we hope to enhance the friendly exchanges between the young people of the two sides, further promote the collaboration in the areas of science and technology innovation, bio-medicine, education and etc.

   Mr Graeme Meehan, Australian Consul General in Shanghai attended the meeting as well.

   Translation of the video:

   Mr Yang Xiong, the Mayor of Shanghai met with the Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk, the Premier of Queensland, Australia today.

   Mr Yang said that in accordance with the Central Government’s requirements, Shanghai currently is putting great efforts in the development of the pilot free trade zone which will generate more opportunities for the collaborations between Queensland and Shanghai.
Meanwhile, Shanghai is speeding up the construction of a science and technology innovation center with global influence. On the basis of existing cooperation between the universities and research institutions between the two sides, Shanghai hope to further expand the exchanges, enhance the cooperation and achieve more outcomes in scientific and technological innovations.

The Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk said Queensland Government attaches great importance to the relationship with Shanghai and actively implement the cooperation and exchanges under the sister-state memorandum. On next step, Queensland hopes to enhance the friendly exchanges between the younger generation of the two sides, further promote the collaboration in the areas of science and technology innovation, bio-medicine, education and etc.

As invited by the Chinese People’s Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries, the Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk, the Premier of Queensland paid a visit to China from 27-30 September. On 28th Sept afternoon, Mr Wan Gang, Vice Chairman of the National Committee of Chinese People’s Political Consultative Conference (CPPCC) met with Ms Palaszczuk in Beijing.

Vice Chairman Wan Gang said that the Chinese government attaches importance to strengthening the Sino-Australian relations and there has been frequent high-level exchanges and fruitful and successful cooperation in various sectors between the two countries. In June this year, China and Australia signed the free trade agreement which set a new milestone for the bilateral trade and economic cooperation. We hope the Queensland government continue to play an active role in the promotion of the collaboration between Australia and China in the areas of economic and trade, energy and resources, hi-tech, cultural exchanges and local government exchanges.

The Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk said that China is Queensland’s largest trading partner. The Queensland government will continue to support the expansion of the cooperation with China in trade and investment, science and technology, culture, tourism, and etc.

Mr Xie Yuan, Vice Chairman of the Chinese People’s Association for Friendship with Foreign Countries also attended the meeting.

   Saitama Newspaper – Monday, 5 October 2015

   The Premier of Queensland, our sister state in Australia, Annastacia Palaszczuk MP visited Saitama Prefecture and met with Governor Ueda for talks on the 3rd of October. This is her first visit to Saitama and is aimed at deepening economic relationships and strengthen educational partnerships.

   The Premier came to the meeting venue in Toyota’s fuel cell automobile “MIRAI”. The Premier advised they are putting a lot of focus on innovation and would like to see the introduction of automobiles using advanced technology as this into Queensland.

   Governor Ueda showed his appreciation for the short term study abroad programme was started last year and which he has been advised “gives high school students a great experience”. The Governor also reported that koalas sent from Queensland last year gave birth to two babies.

   The Queensland Government marked the 30th anniversary of the sister-state relationship with Saitama Prefecture last year, and during the Governors visit to Queensland released a joint statement to promote the strengthening bilateral relations in tourism and trade.

2. Investment into coal…

   Nikkan Newspaper – 6 October 2015

   By way of introduction, the Premier of Queensland the Hon Annastacia Palaszczuk MP stated “Twenty years ago, I was an advisor on coal to the then Federal Minister. My father was a previous Natural Resources Minister”

   The Premier has visited Japan to promote trade and investment. “Our exports in 2014-15 were A$19 Billion and 22% of that was to Japan.”

   She “called” (word play on “coal”) out to investors “We have a long history of exporting the world’s best coal. I would like to further strengthen our relationship with Japan. Our door is always open”

3. Seminar to commemorate The Hon. Annastacia Palaszczuk MP, Premier of Queensland’s first visit to Japan

   JOGMEC – Metal Sangyo news release

   The Hon. Annastacia Palaszczuk MP, Premier of Queensland, visited Japan with a business delegation and representatives from regional entities, for the first time since she was sworn in as Premier of Queensland on 14 February 2015.

   To commemorate the Premier’s visit, JOGMEC held a special seminar which was attended by representatives of Japanese companies that are involved in Queensland resources industry. This seminar is based on the MOU between the Queensland government and JOGMEC for a comprehensive and strategic partnership.

   President Kawano firstly gave an address of welcome and gave an overview of outcomes from the last 2 years since signing this MOU. In his presentation, he stated that despite the decline in resources prices which has affected Japanese companies outlook for investment in Queensland, JOGMEC has signed 3 joint venture agreements with local resources companies and also held 6 investment promotion seminars, both in Tokyo and Brisbane.

The Premier then gave a speech outlining her resources policies. The Premier spoke of the continuing importance of the resources trading relationship, centered around coal, with Japan to Queensland and also reported that since coming to office in February, the government has been working on fundamental review to further streamline resources policies, with the “innovative resources tenures framework” and “My Mines Online” as examples. She further spoke about the importance of finding balance between landholders and environmental protection for resource developments. This was followed by a Q &A and networking session.

JOGMEC intends to develop further resource business with Queensland, a state which is rich in not only coal but natural gas and metals resources and also promote further investment into the state by Japanese companies.

4. Site visit by the Queensland Premier

Nikkan Newspaper – 3 October 2015

The Premier of Queensland and Minister for the Arts, The Hon. Annastacia Palaszczuk MP, on a mission to Japan to further deepen relationships with industry, visited the Softbank Headquarters and undertook a demonstration with “Pepper”.

The visit was arranged through the Queensland Government’s Tokyo office (A BBA Member), with whom we have previously worked with to arrange a site visit (to QLD) and exchange ideas on gaming industry, and was undertaken as robotics industry site visit.

Queensland puts a strong focus on the development of game and digital image industry development and has a strong interest in robotics in order to further develop innovative knowledge intensive industries using ICT.

Apart from the demonstration of Pepper, there was a presentation on the applications in education and tourism for humanoid robots, which was followed by general discussion.

5. Business Alliance with Queensland

BMTU – 1 October 2015

The Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ, Ltd. (Chairman: Nobuyuki Hirano) announced today that it has entered into a business alliance agreement with Queensland Government.

The economy of Queensland is one of the fastest growing economies within Australia. Strong economic growth, together with sustained industry and a rise in population is to achieve a steady growth.

The Japan-Australia Economic Partnership Agreement (JAEPA) has been a landmark agreement set to strengthen ties with both Japanese and Australian market.

BMTU has been present in Australia in 1985, and a variety of financial services have been provided for customers in Australia through years. The signing of the MOU between BMTU and Queensland Government will contribute to the improvement and reinforcement for provision of information on business environment and prospective projects in Queensland, and align with support services that insure the ability to meet all of BMTU customers' needs in business development in Queensland.
6. Queensland Premier's First Visit: Talks on Resources Policy at JOGMEC Seminar

   Japan Metal Daily – 2 October 2015

To commemorate the first visit to Japan of the Premier of Queensland (The Hon. Annastacia Palaszczuk MP), the world’s largest exporter of metallurgical coal, JOGMEC held a seminar where the Premier outlined policies aimed at the enhancing the competitiveness of the state’s resources industry.

The Premier outlined the states resources policies. Since her inauguration in February 2015, the Premier has undertaken polices aimed at increasing the competitiveness of the state’s resources industry. She spoke about how streamlining the approvals process for exploration and mining developments will lead to the further development of Queensland’s resource industry. She also stressed on her desire to further strengthen the relationship with Japan.

Based on the MOU signed two years ago to strengthen their cooperative relationship, Mr. Hirobumi Kawano, President of JOGMEC committed to further supporting the exploration and development for Japanese companies in Queensland. He emphasized the importance of cooperation with Japanese companies so as to secure stably supply of coal resources.

7. QLD Premier Explains Resources Policy

   Sangyo Shimbun – 2 October 2015

Annastacia Palaszczuk MP, the Premier of Queensland gave a speech and outlined her resources policy in Tokyo on the 1st of October. She explained how her government has been working since their formation in February to streamline approval processes and tenure frameworks and to utilize innovation to achieve sustainable growth in the resources sector.

As metallurgical coal makes up 60% of overall coal exports and the Japanese market accounts for 22% of the A$19 billion total coal exports, the Premier emphasized her intention to undertake a strengthening of ties with Japan.

In the Q&A after the presentation, a Japanese steel manufacturing company asked the Premier support prospective development projects by independent (coal) companies and stated that he has hopes that under the Premier’s leadership the state will be able to both increase production and maintain a variety of coal qualities, which is one of Queensland’s strengths. The Premier indicated that the Queensland government will continue to support development of coal projects and export the world’s best coal and also expressed a wish to further deepen the relationship with Japan.

The premier addressed a speech at the seminar co-hosted by JOGMEC and Queensland Government Japan Office. Mr. Kawano the president of JOGMEC mentioned that they are currently supporting several Japanese firms in regards to guaranty of liabilities and investment. JOGMEC stated that will intend to continue to assist Japanese companies to develop mining projects.

ABBOT Point might prove the answer towards strengthening ties with Japan and China. That's according to Whitsunday Mayor Jenny Whitney, who travelled to the two countries last week with a trade delegation including Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk and Mackay Mayor Deirdre Comerford.

Premier urges focus on food, wine PREMIER Annastacia Palaszczuk has predicted a buoyant future for the state's tourism industry, with more international flights from China and Japan and the prospect of another $1 billion tourism project investment from China's Wanda development group.

THE recent State Government trade mission to China and Japan, led by premier Annastacia Palaszczuk, and attended by Whitsunday Regional Council mayor Jennifer Whitney, has continued to lay the platform for Bowen and Gumluk's horticultural sector to grow into these markets. Cr Whitney said meetings were held in Tokyo, Japan that focused on the Whitsunday region's horticultural sector and its agricultural industry more broadly.

Chinese market awaits

THE Premier’s Trade and Investment Mission to China included mayors and key business leaders from Cairns, Townsville, Mackay and Whitsunday regions, and visited Beijing and Shanghai.

Mayor Bob Manning and I represented Cairns and Tropical North Queensland on the China leg of the mission. The mission continued on to Japan.

The focus from our region was on investment into Tropical North Queensland, identifying areas of interest and promoting areas of opportunity; and trade in goods and services, particularly in the agriculture, education and tourism sectors.

The delegation visited Beijing and Shanghai, where a number of events were hosted by the Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk showcase Queensland and the regions.

At each event, our mayor presented on the unique characteristics of Cairns and Tropical North Queensland. His presentations were always well received and led to inquiries and discussion.

There are many opportunities for our region in China and it’s not just for big companies.

The Australian brand is well regarded as high quality and sound expertise, whether it be for food products or other goods and services.

A number of people I met were looking for niche food products that would well suit our capability in supply.

Education companies are interested in study tours in our region, some with an interest in a business attachment rather than a tourist focus.

The ageing population in China is another area of potential for training and skills development, as is youth development in team situations for the children of “one-child families”.

Tourism development is another area of key interest, with companies looking for all areas of specialisation from operations management to environmental management and everything in between.

This is not a new phenomenon; it’s well known, but not well exploited in our region.

Our region is well known among those we spoke to, however, a common theme was that more could be done to promote the range of opportunities in and from our region.

The key to success in any of these missions is to follow up regularly and build on the relationships developed.

Early follow up contact and a return visit to market within the next six months will ensure momentum and credibility.

What gives me great confidence is our Australian and Cairns brands are strong in the Chinese market, representing high quality products and technical excellence and capacity in the provision of services.

There is opportunity for trade in both goods and services that matches the scale of business in our region.

The key to developing solid long-term relationships is to foster them early and continually work on the opportunities to success. Time in the market and time in market.

Developing new markets is never easy, whether it be local or international. But the rewards can certainly be significant and long lasting.

Mark Matthews is the chief executive of Advance Cairns.
LETTER OF INTENT

BIOFUELLING ECONOMY

ANYTHING you can do with fossil fuels, you can do with biomass.

That statement from Queensland University of Technology associate professor Ian O’Hara reveals potential for the bio-commodities industry to expand, especially around sugarcane-dominated Mackay.

And at the Centre for Tropical Crops and Biocommodities pilot plant at Racecourse Mill, that potential might well be on the way to being realised.

Last week global food and beverage company Asahi Holdings and QUT signed a letter of intent to work together in bringing new sugarcane fermentation technology, patented by Asahi, to a commercial level.

“Asahi have developed this fabulous technology. It’s a different technology for producing biofuels from cane,” Mr O’Hara said.

“What we’ve been doing is helping to evaluate that technology and assessing its potential for the sugarcane industry. If (the testing) is successful, it could result in a significant increase in sugar and ethanol yields in sugar mills in Queensland as well as globally.

“The technology is very exciting and has a lot of potential to value-add to sugarcane production.”

Mr O’Hara said incorporating the technology into existing sugar mills would only require a minor modification to the current process. While he couldn’t give details on the potential it had to increase both sugar and ethanol yields, he said it was significant.

“We’re looking to further develop the technology, including further trials at Mackay over next 12 months,” Mr O’Hara said.

He was also encouraged by the co-operation between research, industry and government on the project, with Queensland Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk and Mackay Regional Council Mayor Deirdre Comerford present in Japan for the signing.

The push to develop biofuels was already in full swing at other locations around the world.

In Brazil, Mr O’Hara said cane was grown for equal usage in sugar and biofuel production.

“Biofuels are as important as sugar in the production process (in Brazil),” he said.

“There are places in the world where people are only growing for biofuels, not for sugar.”

Mr O’Hara said a Deloitte report published last year showed that if seven regionally-based bio-refineries were built, it would increase GDP by $1.8 billion and create 6500 new full-time jobs.

“What’s very important for Queensland is we continue to diversify our economy and in the process create jobs in regional Queensland,” he said.

ABBOT Point might prove the answer towards strengthening ties with Japan and China.

That’s according to Whitsunday Mayor Jenny Whitney, who travelled to the two countries last week with a trade delegation including Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk and Mackay Mayor Deirdre Comerford.

While both countries were keen to import ‘cream of the crop produce’, Ms Whitney said they wanted this produce in huge quantities.

That’s why she believed talks about making Abbot Point a multi-modal port were a “wonderful suggestion”.

“It doesn’t tie it up as being coal and coal only, it could be agriculture, horticulture, it could be other minerals,” she said.

Plans to expand the Whitsunday airport would also serve future relationships well.

“We would be looking at having tourists on top of the plane and aquaculture and horticulture underneath,” Ms Whitney said.

“We are looking at a joint partner on the lease of the airport, but we would retain a 51% ownership.

“Council will be dealing with this item on its agenda within the month I’d say.”

She said the countries were also open to working with farmers to establish a cannery or packaging plant, if need be.

But she also said the countries had a lot to offer the Whitsundays, especially when it came to technology,” she said.

“(We visited a business) that sells literally 300 robots a minute, the technology in Japan is amazing,” she said.

“Maybe that is something that can be partnered with the innovation of our farming processes.”

Ms Whitney will return to China next week for an ‘Island Symposium’.

We have tourists on top of the plane and aquaculture and horticulture underneath.

Premier urges focus on food, wine

TONY RAGGATT

PREMIER Annastacia Palaszczuk has predicted a buoyant future for the state’s tourism industry, with more international flights from China and Japan and the prospect of another $1 billion tourism project investment from China’s Wanda development group.

Speaking at the DestinationQ tourism forum in Townsville yesterday, Ms Palaszczuk urged the industry to put more emphasis on food and wine, saying that was what Asian travellers were seeking.

The Government funds the annual two-day conference, which has attracted 400 of the tourism industry’s leaders, and yesterday had half the ministry attending, including Deputy Premier Jackie Trad, Treasurer Curtis Pitt, Tourism Minister Kate Jones, Main Roads, Ports, Energy and Water Supply Minister Mark Bailey, Environment Minister Steven Miles and Disability Services and Seniors Minister Coralee O’Rourke.

Ms Palaszczuk said she had “very productive” discussions with representatives of China Eastern Airlines in China last week during a seven-day trade mission.

“We are working with China Eastern to expand on the existing seasonal services between Shanghai and Cairns and increase other direct flights into Queensland,” she said.

Jetstar services between Wuhan and the Gold Coast, which were started last week, are expected to add $26 million in visitor spending.

Ms Palaszczuk said she had also spoken with China’s Wanda Group, which wanted another major project in Queensland to add to its $1 billion Jewel project on the Gold Coast.

She said she was sending Tourism Minister Kate Jones to China next month to capitalise on the groundwork the trade mission had set.

“I think mining will continue to be a strength for us, but tourism is perfectly positioned to take up where the resources sector has left off,” Ms Palaszczuk said.

She said Queensland tourism was discussed with Japanese and Chinese officials who wanted to see food and wine included in their experience.

“They want to try our seafood, they want to attend our barbecues and they want to try our wine,” Ms Palaszczuk said.

She said an emphasis on wining and dining would be included in an increased tourism advertising presence in China and Japan next year and urged the industry to think about growing tourism markets from Malaysia, South Korea and India.

Ms Jones said Townsville was sharing in a strong rebound in tourism in the state with the city enjoying a 27 per cent boost in international visitors to about 126,000 in the year to June.

Townsville Enterprise tourism manager Bridget Woods said it would press the city’s case for access to the Government’s Aviation Investment Fund and destination marketing funding.

The recent State Government trade mission to China and Japan, led by premier Annastacia Palaszczuk, and attended by Whitsunday Regional Council mayor Jennifer Whitney, has continued to lay the platform for Bowen and Gumlu’s horticultural sector to grow into these markets.

Cr Whitney said meetings were held in Tokyo, Japan that focused on the Whitsunday region’s horticultural sector and its agricultural industry more broadly.

She said she attended the Japan-Australia Economic Partnership Agreement Agricultural Investment seminar with the Bank of Tokyo Mitsubishi, the Queensland Food Promotion Showcase with the Iron Chef, and had a number of meetings with agricultural investors and importers facilitated by Trade and Invest Queensland.

Cr Whitney said the events and meetings built on the work undertaken earlier this year which saw local growers and Bowen Chamber of Commerce representatives visit Japan to gain a better appreciation of the export opportunities to Japan, to understand the packaging and health requirements of the market, as well as its protocols placed on produce.

“Bowen and Gumlu is a high value and high quality horticultural growing area and is well known in Japan, especially in light of the work that has been undertaken over the past 12 months by our growers. This has started a strong relationship that will grow as our trade opportunities and improved access begins to open up our region,” she said.

“We have developed a strong relationship with Trade and Investment Commissioner of Japan Takeshi Adachi, and council will continue to welcome the interest and opportunities that can come from Japanese investors.”

Premier Palaszczuk made it very clear that Queensland is open for business and I believe the range and diversity of the Whitsundays industries and products puts us at the forefront.”

Cr Whitney said China showed a key interest in the region’s tourism sector. She said the emerging potential for a transport and logistics hub with the Whitsunday Coast Airport would provide market access potential.

She said discussions also centred around the potential for the education and aquaculture sectors. The mayors from Mackay, Townsville and Cairns also attended the trade mission.

SNAPSHOT

Mayor Jennifer Whitney attended roundtable talks in Mackay this week along with business leaders from across the region, to identify regional development opportunities for North Queensland.

It was hosted by Minister Assisting the Premier on North Queensland Coralee O'Rourke and a wide range of big ideas were flagged. Cr Whitney raised the following projects:

- Whitsunday Coast Airport
- International Export Hub;
- Multimodal cargo facility at Abbot Point to export products and produce;
- Shore up water security by constructing the Urania Dam and other water infrastructure.

The ideas generated will feed into the Northern Queensland Economic Summit in Cairns to be held from November 4-6 which will also be attended by international investors.
Whitsunday Regional Council Mayor Jennifer Whitney, Queensland Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk and Trade and Investment Commissioner Japan Takeshi Adachi spoke about the potential for improved market access for the Bowen and Gumlpu horticulture industry to Japan during the recent State Government trade mission to Japan and China.

Premier meets Pepper

TONY MOORE

Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk will this week meet Pepper – the world's first robot with feelings – as she tours China and Japan to forge industry links for Labor's $180 million Advance Queensland policy to promote robotics in Queensland schools.

Pepper is described by its Japanese inventors, SoftBank Robotics Corporation, as the world's first personal robot to "read and interpret emotions". The first 1000 Pepper robots were put up for sale by the Tokyo-based firm on July 1.

In July, when she launched the Advance Queensland policy, Ms Palaszczuk said robotics was part of Queensland's future. "And with the advancements in robotics and IT, we can't yet imagine the true scope of what is possible," Ms Palaszczuk said. "The possibilities are endless, many opportunities are unimaginable. "We must become the state that commercialises our innovations, not the state that loses jobs because of them."

Ms Palaszczuk left on Saturday night and will visit Pepper at the end of her week-long trade mission to China and Japan, Queensland's two largest trading partners.

Premier plugs in to robotic future

Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk will this week meet Pepper – the world’s first robot with feelings – as she tours China and Japan to forge industry links for Labor’s $180 million Advance Queensland policy to promote robotics in Queensland schools.

Pepper is described by its Japanese inventors, SoftBank Robotics Corporation, as the world’s first personal robot to “read and interpret emotions”. The first 1000 Pepper robots were put up for sale by the Tokyo-based firm on July 1.

In July, when she launched the Advance Queensland policy, Ms Palaszczuk said robotics was part of Queensland’s future.

“And with the advancements in robotics and IT, we can’t yet imagine the true scope of what is possible,” Ms Palaszczuk said.

“The possibilities are endless, many opportunities are unimaginable.

“We must become the state that commercialises our innovations, not the state that loses jobs because of them.”

Softbank’s website explains Pepper “reads” people’s words, facial expressions and the environment and is supported by hundreds of apps, allowing it to play your favourite song if you are sad.

Pepper is also used as a store greeter by Softbank Mobile, one of Japan’s largest telecommunications companies.

“Pepper is at ease when he is around people he knows, happy when he is praised, and gets scared when the lights go down,” its website says.

“Depending on the emotion at the time, Pepper raises his voice or sighs. Pepper’s emotions can be seen on the heart display, which shows different colours and movements.

“Pepper is much more than a robot, he’s a companion able to communicate with you through the most intuitive interface we know: voice, touch and emotions.”

Ms Palaszczuk left on Saturday night and will visit Pepper at the end of her week-long trade mission to China and Japan, Queensland’s two largest trading partners.

In 2014-15, Queensland’s two-way trade with China was worth almost $18 billion, while trade with Japan exceeded $12 billion.

“That’s a massive $30 billion worth of trade in one year between Queensland and our top two trading partners,” the Premier said. “Huge as that amount is, we want to develop our trade ties even more.”
The mayors of Cairns, Townsville, Mackay and the Whitsundays – keen to attract Chinese tourists and investment to northern and central Queensland – are also on the seven-day trip.
Queensland also attracts 14,000 international students from China, making it one of the state’s top three businesses.
The trade trip – also promoting Queensland beef and agriculture – travels to Shanghai and Beijing before three days in Japan.
Ms Palaszczuk has been booked for television interviews and will promote Queensland beef and agriculture working alongside top chefs in Shanghai and Tokyo.
She will sign a memorandum of understanding with Japan’s Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi UFJ and the Queensland government is working on a similar agreement with the China Development Bank.
“I am optimistic that new trade deals negotiated under the agreement have the potential to add $1 billion or more each year to our two-way trade figures,” she said.
The trade mission will identify opportunities for both nations to invest in Queensland’s roads, rail, ports and tunnels.
It will examine opportunities in purpose-built student accommodation, urban renewal projects, and health and knowledge precincts.
New health precincts are now being built at Southport – near the Griffith University campus – and near the Sunshine Coast University Public Hospital at Kawana.

CAIRNS Mayor Bob Manning has joined Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk on a trade and investment mission to China and Japan. He is part of a 14-member team which includes the mayors of Townsville, Whitsunday and Mackay. Ms Palaszczuk will visit Beijing and Shanghai before travelling to Tokyo for another three days of meetings.

Premier in China as Newman takes aim

JASON TIN

FORMER premier Campbell Newman believes politicians are being “ripped apart” for attempting reform, while admitting his administration made decisions that were “duds politically”.

As Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk continued a trade mission in China Mr Newman used an ABC 7.30 interview last night to take another swipe at the media to warn Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull that he could end up facing the same fates as his recent predecessors.

“The more you try and do, the more controversy, you’ll be ripped apart in this black and white environment of reporting and what masquerades as debate,” Mr Newman said. “The message is the less you do, the less you take on vested interests, the less you want to undertake reform, the more you’ll be rewarded in the polls.”

Mr Newman, who lost his seat at the last election and led his party to defeat following a string of controversies and public battles, repeated his claim that there was a difficult media environment and tough community “attitudes”.

“The shelf life of political leaders seems to be diminishing,” he told the ABC.

“I would venture to suggest it’s the triangulation between the attitudes of the community, the use of social media and the way politics is being reported.”

Mr Newman said the public “need to know about our leaders”, but pointed to a “territory of a quite sustained attack on those personalities” as a problem.

“I think Tony Abbott, Kevin Rudd, Julia Gillard all got a bad run.” Mr Newman, who said he was a “very popular political figure” when he was first elected, conceded his administration made errors “politically”. “They were dud (decisions) politically but they were in the best interests of Queenslanders and that’s what we are seeking to explain.

Meanwhile, Ms Palaszczuk, who is travelling without media, will today meet a major Chinese airline operator.

The Premier’s trip to China and Japan is aimed at increasing investment in the Sunshine State and triggering a jump in trade, with Queensland’s two-way trade with China last financial year worth close to $18 billion. Trade with Japan topped $12 billion in value.

Ms Palaszczuk yesterday met the Wanda Group about “tourism investment opportunities in Queensland”, hosted an investment attraction lunch and met the Minister for Science and Technology.

Our mayor on a mission

WHITSUNDAY Regional Council Mayor Jennifer Whitney is visiting China and Japan this week, as part of a trade and investment mission being led by Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk.

China and Japan are Queensland’s biggest trading partners.

In 2014—15, Queensland’s two-way trade with China was worth almost $18 billion, while trade with Japan exceeded $12 billion.

Huge as that amount is, according to Ms Palaszczuk, the mission is aiming to develop those trade ties even more, with an emphasis on agriculture, education and tourism.

It will be interesting to see what opportunities our mayor identifies for our region and reports back on, involving both of those nations.

The mayors of Cairns, Townsville and Mackay are also among the 14-strong team accompanying the premier.

Talking mayors, this week has seen the 2016 Whitsunday mayoral race open up with Andrew Willcox throwing his hat in the ring.

Jennifer Whitney has already confirmed she will be contesting the seat again and the next six months in the lead up to the election will be interesting times as we wait and see who else puts their hand up to contest a seat — either as mayor or as one of the six councillors.

Collinsville’s Peter Ramage and Bowen’s Dave Clark have confirmed they will stand again.

Earlier this month Mike Brunker put his hand up to stand for a seat as a councillor — and with Andrew Willcox running for mayor — it leaves his Queens Beach seat vacant ready for Mike’s return to local government — if that is what the community desires. If you listen to the word on the street, that is exactly what they want — and they can’t wait.

Bowen and Collinsville certainly need something to change.

I am looking forward to an interesting six months ahead in the lead up to our local government elections.

It is the first time the Whitsundays has been invited to accompany the Premier on a trade delegation to China and Japan.

Cr Whitney flew out of the Whitsundays on Saturday afternoon and has promised she will be "working my backside off from morning until night" to establish opportunities for the region.

The export of horticultural and aquacultural products, building relationships with Chinese business groups is high on Cr Whitney’s list of priorities.

“The Premier's schedule is very well structured to interact with our overseas friends and also great for us to be able to network and showcase our regions,” Cr Whitney said.

It is a tremendous opportunity for the Whitsundays.

Are we on our own?

BRUCE HEDDITCH
Bowen Chamber of Commerce chairman

I become disheartened at the lack of interest shown by all governments regarding the difficulties confronting country communities such as Bowen. Politicians of all persuasion must realise that the future of Australia does not emanate from the capital cities of Australia but from regional and rural areas of this nation.

The agricultural industry, the horticultural industry, the dairy industry, the sugar industry, the cattle industry, the seafood industry and the mining industry are all country based.

The Federal Government makes great play for Australia of the three signed “Free Trade Agreements” with Japan, South Korea and China but when you really analyse the documents the great opportunities exist for country industries.

I notice the Premier of Queensland is currently overseas on a Trade Mission and I don’t begrudge that endeavour but surely the Trade and Investment Offices of Queensland based all around the world could be used to broaden their knowledge of what this state has to offer.

In February of this year I wrote to Premier Palaszczuk on behalf of the Chamber extending an invitation to visit Bowen but unfortunately no response has been received.

Additionally I wrote to Prime Minister Abbot back in August pointing out the difficulties confronting Bowen and strongly urging the development of water projects for Northern Australia. Unfortunately no response.

Now our own Council adopts growth figures for our future that implies we will be stagnant over the next 21 years or with very limited growth. The Council appears to have no plan other than seminars to encourage Bowen to grow.

What we need is drive, initiative and above all commitment including financial to the private sector by all three tiers of government.

GROUNDWATER RIGHTS ERODED

Landowner and community rights of legal appeal in the Queensland Land Court against water licences for mining companies to take enormous amounts of groundwater would be lost if proposed amendments to the Water Act are approved in the Queensland parliament.

The proposed Alpha Coal Mine alone would involve taking the equivalent of 70,400 Olympic swimming pools worth of underground water.

This dewatering process is needed for a mining company to access coal deposits but can have huge and permanent negative impacts on a region’s land owners, communities and the environment.

Currently mining companies have to apply to get a water licence, the application is publicly notified and then submitters (for example graziers or community groups concerned about water) have the right to appeal the decision on the water licence to the Land Court.

In late 2014 the LNP government introduced the Water Reform and Other Legislation Amendment Act 2014 (Qld) (WROMLAA) which proposed to drop public rights of appeal on water licences and instead provide the mining industry with a statutory right to dewater.

ALP’s Jacqui Trad then in Opposition stated the Alpha mine Queensland Land Court decision showed that mine water dewatering impacts are difficult to predict but involve major direct and permanent impacts on the groundwater relied upon by landholders and townsfolk as well as significant environmental impacts.

Removing water licence requirements seriously undermines public scrutiny of an application for a water licence and the potentially major impacts on groundwater.

That necessary input of local knowledge and independent professional expertise on impacts is bypassed.

Even for development applications for shopping centres, our legal system provides the community with submission and appeal rights to the Planning and Environment Court for independent merit assessment.

Impacts to our precious groundwater by large scale mining activities deserve the same scrutiny against community concerns.

The current State Government has further committed to open, accountable, transparent governance. This move is contrary to those commitments and would silence the legal rights of those concerned with impacts to groundwater in Queensland.

This resource is of inestimable value, especially to western Queenslanders facing severe droughts and where there are now fifty existing coal mines and nine massive coal mines planned.

Those concerned can contact their local MP or Minister for State Development and Minister for Natural Resources and Mines Dr Anthony Lynham, or Minister for Environment and Protection and Minister for National Parks and the Great Barrier Reef Dr Steven Miles.

SPORTS DRINKS WARNING

Queenslanders are advised to avoid sugar-sweetened sports drinks, which may be contributing to the state’s burgeoning obesity epidemic.

Cancer Council warns some products may contain more than 13 teaspoons of sugar in one bottle – over twice the recommended daily intake.

Even smaller 380ml varieties of some sports drinks have between 8 and 13.5 teaspoons of sugar, with 19 teaspoons in a one-litre bottle of one of the most popular drinks.

We believe all sugar-sweetened sports drinks should be avoided. The World Health Organization recommends consumers limit sugar consumption to no more than six teaspoons a day for optimum health.
Just a few sips of a sports drink could exceed that recommendation, undoing the benefits of an otherwise healthy diet and physical activity.

Of great concern, some parents buy sports drinks for their kids after a weekend game of soccer or netball, conditioning young people to crave sugar.

Weekly consumption of sports drinks can cause weight gain and increase a person’s risks of chronic diseases, including some cancers.

We recommend all Queenslanders enjoy a well-balanced diet and drink eight glasses of water each day, avoiding sugar-sweetened beverages.

People who lead sedentary lifestyles and don't exercise should be particularly wary of eliminating these energy intensive sugar-laden drinks from their diet.

Regular exercise and a healthy low-sugar diet is key to maintaining health and happiness.

Cancer Council is urging all Queenslanders to stick with drinking water or unflavoured low-fat milk.

Be wary of health claims on sports drinks like 'contains vitamins' or 'quenches thirst' - check the amount of sugar on the nutrition panel and the serving size.

Avoid the sports drink aisle at the shops, and curb your consumption by cutting out impulse buying.

For more information on product formulation and sugar contents, go to rethinksugarydrink.org.au.

At least one-third of all cancers are preventable through lifestyle adjustments including eating a healthy diet, being physically active, reducing alcohol intake and maintaining a healthy weight.

More information about Cancer Council Queensland is available via 13 11 20 or cancerqld.org.au.

Mackay on biofuels global stage

TECHNOLOGY that should dramatically advance the global biofuels industry will be tested at Mackay’s Racecourse Mill.

The announcement came from Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk, as she witnessed the signing of an agreement between global food and beverage giant Asahi Holdings and QUT, during her trade trip to Japan alongside Mayor Deirdre Comerford.

She said Asahi have patented a “new, more efficient sugarcane process” that aimed to increase the yield of sugar and ethanol.

QUT have been testing a fermentation process at Racecourse Mill for the past two years.

“This is a very significant decision for Queensland’s biofuels industry and has the potential to dramatically advance the take-up of biofuels from sugarcane,” Ms Palaszczuk said.

Asahi have patented a “new, more efficient sugarcane process. It aims to increase the yield of both sugar and ethanol.”

The Asahi–QUT agreement came on top of the interest shown by senior US Navy officials during the premier’s trade mission to the US earlier this year.

Ms Palaszczuk also congratulated QUT associate professor Ian O’Hara and the centre for tropical crops and bio-commodities.

Mr O’Hara said the aim would be to test the process on a commercial scale.

“Guest speakers
TWO world-renowned scientists and investors will share their insights on opportunities for growth industries in Mackay next month.

Dr Jaleh Daie and Dr Roger Wyse will be guest speakers at the Diversify Mackay Leadership Alliance 2nd annual Report Card Luncheon.

The pair will be in Australia as guest speakers for The Australasian Bioenergy and Bioproducts Symposium and will make a flying visit to Mackay on October 13 for the luncheon.

The Palaszczuk Government will develop a biofutures strategy to outline how a globally competitive and sustainable industry can be established in Queensland.”

Biofutures meeting

THE push to advance the state’s biofuels sector has gained momentum.

Premier Palaszczuk has locked in October 22 as the first meeting of the Biofutures Cabinet Committee in Mackay.

The committee will aim to coordinate a “whole-of-government” effort to develop the biofuels sector in Queensland.

A spokeswoman for the premier said they chose Mackay because it had two ethanol plants.

“We have chosen Mackay because of the presence of two ethanol plants in the area, highlighting the opportunities that exist for regional areas with the expansion of the biofuel economy,” she said.

“The Palaszczuk Government will develop a biofutures strategy to outline how a globally competitive and sustainable industry can be established in Queensland.”

Premier's Tokyo talks

Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk marketed Queensland's agribusiness and investment opportunities to a high level audience in Tokyo as part of her first official visit to Japan. Addressing an agricultural investment seminar at the Bank of Tokyo Mitsubishi UFJ, Ms Palaszczuk spoke of the opportunities arising from Australia's recently-signed free trade agreement with Japan. "Queensland and Japan have had a long and fruitful relationship since the 1960s when Japan began supporting the development of our coal industry. And since then, investment from Japan has been critical to the development of Queensland's economy – from resources to tourism and beyond," she said.

Qld govt banks deal with Japan

THE Queensland government has signed an agreement with a giant Japanese bank, aimed at increasing that nation’s investment in the state.

Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk, in Japan as part of an Asian trade mission, signed an MOU with the Bank of Tokyo Mitsubishi on Thursday.

Ms Palaszczuk told an agricultural investment seminar in Japan the agreement "aims to build on our collaborative relationship and increase Japanese investment in our state”.

"We greatly appreciate this vote of confidence in Queensland by Japan’s largest bank and I’m certain it will lead to a new era of Japanese investment in Queensland," she said.

The MOU comes on the back of the free trade agreement Australia signed with Japan in November, which Ms Palaszczuk said presented "a wide range of new possibilities for not only Australian exporters, but also for Japanese investors" to help expand agribusiness here.

Although agriculture was the focus, the government hoped to find investment streams for the key infrastructure projects the state required, particularly the cross river-rail project.

PREMIER Annastacia Palaszczuk wants to ramp up Queensland’s reputation as a destination for Asian foodies, hinting more direct flights could be on the horizon.

Speaking from Japan yesterday, Ms Palaszczuk told The Sunday Mail she planned to discuss her ideas for how the state can better position itself as a food tourism destination with Tourism Minister Kate Jones and Agriculture Minister Bill Byrne.

She was last night due to return to Queensland from her trade mission to China and Japan, which she says already appears to have reaped rewards for the Sunshine State.

During the earlier leg of the trip, Ms Palaszczuk “spoke extensively” to China Eastern Airlines about “some more direct flights”.

“I can’t go into further detail about that, but it was very positive about what we’ll be seeing in Queensland in the future,” she said.

The Premier also met with Japan’s Acting Prime Minister, Yoshihide Suga.

“It was a very high-level meeting focusing on Queensland trade and investment opportunities,” Ms Palaszczuk said. “We spoke at length about our resources industry, opportunities for agriculture and also more exports from Australia and Queensland beef.”

Ms Palaszczuk said Queensland could expect a “huge increase” in the number of tourists coming from China over the next five to 10 years.

“One thing they did stress to us, both in China and Japan, is that we should be promoting our food more, the food experiences in Queensland,” Ms Palaszczuk said.

“So I’m going to speak to my Agriculture Minister, Bill Byrne, about how we can do some more promotion. They’ll have a promotion week here in Japan next year.

“But it’s about promoting what’s good about our food and our restaurants for the experience. It’s not just about the natural beauty, they also want the whole experience.”

She said she would also discuss her ideas with Ms Jones.

Meanwhile, the Premier said she intended to “continue doing what I’m doing” when asked about polling last week that showed Opposition Leader Lawrence Springborg trailing well behind her in the preferred premier stakes.

“We’re just getting on with the job, we’re delivering on our election commitments and I said we’d be a measured and responsible government,” she said. “Obviously, Queenslanders did not like the style of the previous government and I’ll just continue doing what I’m doing.”
A GREAT CALL OF CHINA’S Tycoon’s Queensland shopping list

PREMIER Annastacia Palaszczuk has promised China’s richest man the state will actively help him find job-creating developments in Queensland, which could include a new theme park.

Ms Palaszczuk met with Dalian Wanda Group chairman Wang Jianlin in Beijing during the first leg of her recent trade mission to China and Japan. The discussion could potentially result in a major new entertainment development near Brisbane or the Gold Coast.

Mr Wang, whose net worth was recently estimated by Forbes to be more than $38 billion, spoke with the Premier about expanding his presence in Queensland.

The real estate tycoon’s Wanda Group is currently working on its $970 million joint-venture Jewel development at Broadbeach on the Gold Coast, which is expected to be completed by 2018.

The Premier described Mr Wang, who has been dubbed the richest man in China, as “probably the most influential tourism operator in China” and said their meeting was extremely positive.

“He was speaking to me about the possibility of even further developments, so I have committed that the State Government will work very closely with him about identifying some other opportunities for him, either around the Gold Coast or Brisbane,” she told The Courier-Mail.

Ms Palaszczuk said: “The sort of resort developments the Wanda Group is looking at include entertainment, so theme parks with the great experiences of accommodation.”

Mr Wang has also reportedly been looking to invest more heavily in film.

Ms Palaszczuk said there was also interest in China and Japan in being involved with major infrastructure projects in Queensland.

“They’re actually very interested in... I said our infrastructure plan, from memory, is to be released in February, so they’re looking forward to seeing that,” she said.

“And I did mention that the tender had opened for the second stage of the light rail, so there was a lot of interest in that as well.

“I’ve also been attending a lot of investment seminars, both in China and Japan, and there is a lot of interest in our north Queensland economic summit, which will be held in November in Cairns.”

The Premier said Queensland needed to “do more promotion” in China and Japan, saying it was important that the state’s ministers continue to develop ties with the two nations.

“I intend to come back to this region every year,” Ms Palaszczuk said.

She added that she believes the future of the state lies in strong ties with Asian economies.

A multibillion-dollar resort and theme park planned for Nerang is back on the cards after Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk vowed to work with China’s richest man.

The Premier met Dalian Wanda Group chairman Wang Jianlin in Beijing at the weekend during the first leg of her recent trade mission to China and Japan.

She told the billion-dollar Jewel developer the state would actively help him find job-creating developments in Queensland – including major projects on the Gold Coast.

These projects include an indoor ski centre, skating rink and vintage car museum.

REPORT P4-5
ageing highrises was a process of urban renewal that was set

Towering ambition

Developers set sights on ageing highrises

ANDREW POTTS

THE great Australian beachside holiday is under threat as developers move in on ageing highrises for “urban renewal”.

Everyday Australians look to have cheap holidays on the Coast but luxury units are now the name of the game, according to real estate experts, who say older resorts are set to be wiped away and replaced by new high-end projects.

The latest site in the crosshairs is the 14-storey Surfers Royale, which has been bought by interests linked with Chinese development company Ridong Group’s head Ryu Li.

The Bulletin understands a major tower is likely to replace the 1980s-era building.

The building, on Northcliffe Tce, was bought this year and the timeshare on it has been terminated, with management not kept on.

It is understood the building, near the $1 billion Jewel development being built by Ridong and Wanda groups, is expected to remain, with estate agents approached about either holiday-letting its units or making them available for long-term rentals.

Long-time unit owners said they were aware the Surfers Royale site was likely to be amalgamated with neighbouring parcels of land as they became available.

Prominent estate agent Mark Witheriff of Knight Frank said the demolition of the Iluka site the most prominent example given the original building has been removed already.” he said.

“There is no doubt this cycle is under way and if you look at the previous cycles you would see three- or four-storey buildings getting amalgamated but this time it is the larger, traditional highrises.”

Only a week ago the Gold Coast City Council approved an 88-storey tower for the site of the 1970s-era Iluka resort, which was demolished in late 2013.

It is understood the Surfers Royale site cost about $21 million through Colliers International agents Darrell Irwin and Geoff Lamb.

Mr Irwin said he was sure the site’s new owners would “look at how Jewel’s sales go then make a decision about what may be done on the Surfers Royale site”.

Big hopes of beefing up exports

VICTORIA NUGENT

PLANS for the Townsville region to supply beef and produce to China and Japan could receive a boost after a trade delegation to Asia.

Mayor Jenny Hill, Townsville City Council chief executive officer Ray Burton and Townsville Enterprise chief executive officer Patricia O’Callaghan have spent the week in China and Japan on Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk’s trade mission.

They joined Mackay and Cairns representatives on the ratepayer-funded trip in a bid to attract new investors based on free trade agreements. They made presentations to investors in both countries and hope to lure them to Townsville when they visit Cairns in November for an economic summit.

Cr Hill said mining, agriculture, tourism and e-commerce were top priorities during the trade trip.

“There is still significant interest in the mining sector with a number of companies looking to begin exploration with support from the Queensland Government,” she said.

Cr Hill said agriculture would prove a particularly big industry in the future for Townsville.

“We have three particular companies who are already in North Queensland who want to expand what they’re doing into the fresh produce and meat industry,” she said.

Cr Hill said foreign ownership issues were not a large concern.

“It’s about either long-term lease agreements or supply contracts,” she said. “It can’t just be one little farm, it really needs to be a number of farms.

“What we really want is to supply them through our port or our airport.”

Ms O’Callaghan said agricultural opportunities in North Queensland would be a big future focus.

“Food is a major sector that both Japan and China are looking for support with,” she said.

Ms O’Callaghan said a lot more work was needed to build connections with future investors.

“I think Townsville does have a lot to do in creating awareness,” she said.

“We know the demand is here.”
Chinese keen to study in Cairns

NICK DALTON

Chinese students wanting to study at universities in Cairns have emerged as a “surprising” topic of discussion at a trade mission in China.

Mayor Bob Manning and Advance Cairns chief executive Mark Matthews have returned from Queensland Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk’s trade mission to the world’s most populated nation, focused on expanding education, food and tourism links.

Mr Manning said he underestimated the interest in tertiary education.

“I was inundated by people coming up to me in meetings in Beijing and Shanghai asking about it,” he said.

Mr Manning said he thought it was an area “well and truly covered” which needed further developing now that there were two universities in Cairns – James Cook University and CQU.

“Now that CQU has come on board we have more depth and more strengths,” Mr Manning said.

Mr Matthews said education companies were interested in study tours, some with a business attachment, rather than a tourist focus.

Mr Manning said beef was another area of demand.

“Beef, everyone wants beef,” he said.

Mr Manning said he met Aspial chief executive and chairman Koh Wee Seng in Singapore.

Aspial is planning a $550 million commercial and residential tower complex, Nova, with the first tower on the drawing board and to go before the Cairns Regional Council for approval.

Mr Manning said Mr Koh remained committed to Cairns and both parties had agreed to do everything to “get it over the starting line”.

He said the council would work with Mr Koh to make a business case stack up.

“I came away from the meeting fairly quite warm about it all. It was a good positive meeting.”

Mr Matthews said a number of people were looking for niche food products, “that would well suit our capability in supply”.

“The ageing population in China is another area of potential for training and skills development, as is youth development in team situations for the children of one-child families,” he said.

“Tourism development is another area of key interest, with companies looking for all areas of specialisation from operations management to environmental management and everything in between.

“Our region is well known among those we spoke to, however a common theme was that more could be done to promote the range of opportunities in and from our region.”
